NOT IN OUR NAME

We are in opposition to military action against Iraq. This would undermine, not contribute to, international security and lead to a humanitarian disaster. Such action is unnecessary and is against international law. The Coalition is clear in its criticism of Saddam Hussein's totalitarian Ba'athist regime, which has denied Iraqi citizens economic, social, religious, political, and trade union rights. However, escalating military action carries the grave risk of destabilising the Middle East and endangering millions of innocent people.

We call on all peace activists and organisations, trade unionists, local churches, minority ethnic organisations, development organisations, student organisations, political groupings, campaigners, to join with us in building a mass movement that can stop the war.
